Thank You Mrs. Backstrom

Since the start of the 1976 school year Mrs. Helen Wekstrom has done everything in her power to help the seniors of East Bridgewater His School further their education. Whether it be putting college applications together, scheduling scholarship meetings, or computing class rank, Mrs. Backstrom is one of the few people that all graduating students of East Bridgewater High School wed. (Finally, after twenty-five years, Mrs. Backstrom has decided that she has had away wough. We hope that she finds the time now to do the things that she enjoys. We also want to make sure that she knows just how important and appreciated she for all the hard work and dedication that she has shown to the students of East Bridgewater High School. Thank you Mrs. Backstrom, the guidance department will be lost without you, and the high school will miss you!

To Our Advisors

The Class of 2001 would like to leave behind the greatest amount of gratitude to our ass advisors Mr. Arthur Illsley and Mrs. Joanne O'Brien. This class has shared so many wonderful memories due to their leadership and dedication. The enthusiasm from both individuals has welcomed us with open arms and passed on to our class. Our "team" has been built so strong that not even graduation will end our spirit and closeness. We have loved working with you and thank you for your guidance and advice. Thank you so much for your long hours, positive attitudes, and examples as role models. You have been influential, teaching as the true meaning of teamwork. With sincere love and thanks,

Homecoming Dinner by the Class of 2002

This year's Homecoming Dinner, held on Thursday, October 12, 2000 was an overwhelming success. Salad and pizza attracted over one hundred and two guests to the three hour dinner, making it a wonderful precursor to the pep rally and homecoming game that followed in the next two days...

The 2000 Homecoming Pep Rally was held this year on October 13th. Hosted by crowd favorites Mr. Siddiqui and Ms. Carrara, the rally, held outdoors for the first time since 1995, was a great success. A cartwheeling Ms. Carrara opened the show, which featured a stellar rendition of festivities of the rally. The Freshmen looked to classmate Cheryl Lynch for a humorous interpretation of Mary Catherine Gallager and her antics. Meanwhile, the Sophomores' scene featured Kurt Engel (Nick Williams) and a dance from the film "Bring it On." The well-received Junior Class skit featured Matt Gayle, Ryan Broderick, Mike McCarthy, Shawn White, and the Sachem

Cheerleaders as NSYNC performing "Bye, Bye, Bye." Topping it all off was the Senior Class skit (featuring Erin Sheppard) which outlined the many components neccessary for a true Homecoming skit.

Later, it was the cheerleaders' turn to shine as the organizers of the day's events. They raised the students' spirits by performing a preview of the routines to follow on Homecoming Day. The cheerleaders then revealed the winner of the Spirit Links competition. The Seniors beat out the underclassmen winning top position, followed by the Freshmen, Juniors, and Sophomores respectively. Soon after, Mr. Siddiqui and Ms. Carrara closed the show, but this was only the beginning of the weekend's multitude of activities...

October 14, 2000, Homecoming Day, was the lmination of EBHS's week of activities. 1:00 PM ought the parade, and with it a full day of nonstoption. After the judging of the floats, everyone piled to the stadium for the Vikings' football game against Middleboro Sachems. The first half of the game

Next came the introduction of the Homecoming King, Queen, and court. The nominees (pictured on page 8) were chosen by their peers in the Senior class a week prior to the event. After having completed individual interviews and evaluation sheets during spirit week, they took to the track for announcement of the winners. This year's Homecoming King was Joe Frost, while the title of Queen went to Erin Sheppard. The action continued to the second half of the football game where another tremendous effort gave the Vikings a 35 - 0 overall victory. The victory celebration continued into the night at the Homecoming Dance, put on by the Class of 2001. Attracting 429 guests, the dance was a delightful way to end a week of Homecoming Fun.

"The Reason we are late is because we had to walk all the way from the back parking lot." This is said time and time again to Mrs. Hill and Mrs. DeMarco in the main office each morning, but the truth is that there are only 135 steps between the Senior Section of the Student Parking Lot and the back doors. There are actually more steps from the cafeteria to Ms. Carlson's room. The way students talk about it you would think that the back parking lot is located somewhere in between Nepal and China. Regardless, one thing is certain, the trip back to the parking lot after school is much shorter than the walk to the school building in the morning.

That is the number of slices of pizza that the high school cafebras staff served up during the 2000-2001 school year. Since each piece of pizza is approximately 6 inches long, if we laid them out next to each other the pizza would circle around the track 5.8 times. If the cafebras staff maintained that average of pizza production for each of the years that Ms. Kraemer (NOYOS: 34) has taught, the pizza would cover almost 41 miles.

Life at East Bridgewater High School can be extremely dull from time to time. Come on, admit it, there have been some times in the past where you probably wish that you had been some place else. But before you go on about how far away the student parking lot is, or how early 7:30 am is, or how you can't even pee because the bathrooms are locked, consider this... Where else but East Bridgewater High School could you assemble the pictures that we have put together here on this page. First there are the Benecchi's, Are they loud? Yes. Are they Obnoxious? Absolutely. But, are they family? Most definitely. Then there is the Coolest Junior Alive, Chester Miller the Third. At any time you might find him whaling away on his golden horn. And we can't forget Mr. Crean, Social Studies

Teacher extraordinaire and what appears to be Defender of all Deli products everywhere. Next we move to the creatures doing their math and The Great Pumpkin Joe Frost. Can you believe the things that students will do to draw attention to themselves? Not to be outdone, Mr. Ferrell-Locke decided to go > drowning, it was up to The Calculus Class to save him. Meanwhile, next door in Mr. Illsley's room, Charlie Pereira and Debbie Duncan were deciding the fate of the free world. After all that activity, it is no wonder that Principal Kelly needed to take a nap at the end of the day. So the next time you are about to bash good old East Bridgewater High School, think about all the things that you are exposed to here that definitely don't happen anywhere else.

The second annual faculty student basketball game was held on April 6, 2001. Four teams of students battled each other for the right to play against the faculty in a sure-to-be basketball extravaganza. Some team made up of a bunch of crybabies won the student tournament and then played the old teachers. Before the championship game was held, the faculty scrimmaged each other in a fine display of what not to do when your body is too old to do the things that it used to be able to do. Coached by "Win-or-go-home"

Dunphy and "If you lose, I will kill you!"

Lucier, the two faculty teams were too scared to lose. Mr. Crean was the highlight of the evening.

Why, you ask?? We are not quite sure, but every time he took the floor we all heard screaming. So he must have been a real crowd favorite. Mr. Burkett tackled all comers and played very aggressive defense, because if he didn't, his older brother, Mr. Lucier was going to kill him. Cute little Mr. Charette made a half court shot, that really didn't matter because his team still LOST! Good for him. Mr. Kripps is tall. Mr. Burkett is not. Mr. Crean and Mr. Siddiqui wore matching Lock-in t-shirts that were donated by Mr. Key Club. Good for them. The student team Ryan's awesome basketball skills, especially team LOST TOO! Congratulations to all the for not keeling over dead. That was a real accomplishment for all of them. We are glad that the faculty survived and that they were willing to participate. Mr. Kingman looks like an idiot in the picture to the left (HA HA HA).

A tradition held for many years with much respect had its final and most successful outcome in the year 2000. Mme. Gillespie's French III class held their annual French Wedding ceremony this past spring. It was the highlight of a month long study of French society and wedding customs. The theme of the wedding was "Fleurs du Jardin de Luxemburg" to coincide with the Spring festival in Paris. The celebration was held in the library, which was beautifully transformed into a candlelit garden. Seniors Karissa Carey and Phillip Perry

As required by French law, the marriage is first celebrated at the mayor's office in the presence of two witnesses. At the end of the civil ceremony, the newlywed couple must sign the "livret de famille," a document that remains in the family for centuries. The religious ceremony takes place later that day or the next day. It is a much more solemn occasion.

This event was not the first for East Bridgewater High School. Mme. Gillespie has been teaching this n of French Society and wedding customs for 14 years. She nented at the completion of the event that this was the most essful wedding she had ever taught. The students, very lof their production, thoroughly enjoyed the whole process were honored to participate in the end of a wonderful ion.

Various classes attended a reception following the nony. The authenticity was further enhanced when Seniors

Heather Driscoll, Karissa Carey and Brighid Lynch worked long and hard on making cream puffs to create what the French see as a "Wedding Cake." The French stack cream puff upon cream puff until the tower is high enough to feed the multitude of guests. The class also purchased a giant cake from BJ's to add to the amount of delicious food.

Another important role in the process of the French wedding is the Multi-media classes of Mr. Nick Paone. Senior Brad Bishop, a member of the French III class, did the final editing of the filmed ceremony. Mr. Paone's help was greatly appreciated by Mme. Gillespie and her entire class.

French III worked long and on every aspect of this wedding. class would like to thank one involved in the success of roduction, most especially, Mrs. ara Gillespie, also known as ame, for all the time and effort outs into every project she does it students of East Bridgewater School.

After a fun-filled four hour bus ride, this year's participants in the annual trip to New York City, hosted by Madame Gillespie and Mr. Illsley, filed off of the bus into the city that never sleeps. The day's activities included star-gazing at the museum of natural history, a shopping spree on the famed Fifth Avenue, and a jaunt to the aweinspiring Times Square. Then the group proceeded to the skyscraping Empire State Building where they witnessed the most breathtaking view of the day. As in all past years, the trip was a great success enjoyed by all who attended. Thank you Madame and Mr. Illsley!

"Through these doors pass the world's best students."

In the cold early months of winter, threextraordinary young men graced the halls of Earlidgewater High School. Abraham Mun, Jaco Majok, and James Akuet came from a contine where they had been running from turmoil most their lives. These three boys and one other, Samu Mun (Abraham's nephew) who attends Gordo Mitchell Middle School, left on foot from their hon country of Sudan where war feasted on their land at people. These four courageous young men walk through the sweltering heat of Kenya. Abraham

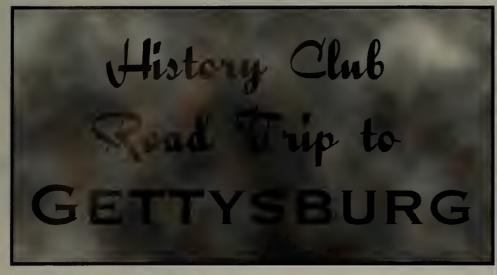

Jacob, James and Samuel resided in a refugee camp in Kenya for several years before boarding an airplatfor the United States.

It is hard enough being the new kid in school. Imagine entering a school not only without a friends but lacking the knowledge of the culture around you. Their culture in Africa was so differe from that of the United States. James, Jacob, Abraham, and Samuel shared these differences with Ea Bridgewater at a welcome reception given to them by East Bridgewater High School's AFS. They al shared their journey, their struggles, their desire to learn our culture, and desire to make friend However, it is those that encounter and befriend these brave young men that learn the most.

The boys track team proved to have an oustanding year claiming the Patriot League champions title. They had nineted consecutive wins over a two-year period, which emcompasses two Patriot League titles and several individual honors. Leading the team were senior captains Scott Viscardi, Doug Colbur Dave Nilson, Mark Margarit, and Kevin Dixon. Strong contributions were made by underclassmen as well, including Kevin McDermott, Corey Casey, T.J. Smith, Shawn White Dennis Sheppard, Dean Lucier, and Matt White. Dennis Shepparand Kevin McCabe also made new freshmen records. The Vikings look foward to another strong season with mar talented athletes returning.

The 2000 baseball season was not as successful as the Vikings would have hoped. It can, however, be considered a positive learning experience for the young players who will carry the team the next year. With an overall record of 7-13, the Vikings did not meet their goal of the state tournament.

With Coach Cronin out for a large part of the season, assistant coaches Eric Martin, David Pierce, and Patrick Kingman stepped up to share their extensive baseball knowledge with the team for the season. Meanwhile seniors Matt Singleton, Dave Capuzzo, Matt Monteiro, and Kevin McNeil helped to provide strong leadership on the field.

One of the greatest wins for the Vikings came against a strong Abington team during an April tournament. Other important wins for the team came against Scituate, Abington, Mashpee, and Randolph.

After years of struggling, the 2000 Soccer Season turned out to be a season to remember for the Vikings. It has been twelve the Patriot League and clinched a tournament berth for only the ond time in school history.

This year's team was led by seven seniors, including captains Joe st, Tom Hansbury, Jesse Conant, and Eric Johnson. They provided ded leadership to a young and inexperienced team. Due to the lack layers, no junior varsity team existed, so many underclassmen were zed to step up to the varsity level rather quickly. The team also had trong representation in the All-Star game with Joe Frost, Tom 15bury, Dan Joughin, and Chris Barton competing.

In addition to all the success, many other momenteous events ck out during the season. First, Joe Frost scored his 100^{th} career II in the 2-2 game against Whitman-Hanson. Overall, he had an standing season as the best soccer player that EBHS has ever in. He proved that he deserved this title by twice tallying 5 goals in ingle game. Secondly, Tom Hansbury was a strong goalie for the 5t Bridgewater team, managing 5 shutout victories. Lastly, the 1m proudly defeated their coach in the alumni game with a hardght 5-4 win to end the season victoriously! Best of luck to next 1r's team!

Playing for Kicks Girls have another Solid Season

After losing eight seniors from the previous year, the girls soccer te faced the 2000 season with some skepticism, as did coach Bill Maug However, with the leadership and optimism of six returning seniors, along w major contributions from underclassmen, the girls prevailed and proved the success once again with an impressive record of 11-4-1. Captains Ka Corthell, Nicole Mauger, and Danielle Morrissey led the team to the second of the state tournament after an outstanding game against Fairhay defeating them 4-1. Senior Stefanie McHugh and sophomore Ashleigh Morscored two goals apiece which enabled them to advance in the tourname Another highlight of the season included the rival game against Rockland. E Bridgewater was able to knock them out of first place in the league, tying I The foundation of the girls soccer team stood behind goalkeeper E

Kenney, who ALWAYS kept everyone aware of her exceptional communication skills! Leading the league in scoring, Nicole Mauger was a huge asset to the team also being recognized as a Boston Globe All-Scholastic and an All-State all-star. Representing East Bridgewater in the league, Danielle Morrissey, Nicole Mauger, junior Nicole Beddia, and sophomore Ashleigh Moore were all chosen as Patriot League all-stars.

With the hard work, effort, and spirit of each individual girl, the team became unified and went farther this season than anyone ever expected.

The East Bridgewater High School Girls Field Hockey team completed another successful season. The team was led by captain Maura Gardner, Karissa Carey, and Jill Smith to the State Tournament once again. After losing many of last year's seniors, the girls worked extremely hard to evolve as a strong team.

Key games of the season were East Bridgewater vs. Hingham at Hingham, East Bridgewater vs. West Bridgewater at home, and East Bridgewater vs. Scituate at home. Four players were chosen to represent the team in the Patriot League All-Star game: Meghan

Rosenberg, Rachel Anderson, Karissa Carey and Michelle Roan Rachel Anderson, who was also chosen as a Brockton Enterprise All Scholastic Player, scored sever goals and one assist during the season, while former All Scholastic, Maura Gardner stayed close behind with five goals and one assist. Meg Rosenberg had remarkable eight shutouts a goalie. Finishing second in the league, with a record of 5-6-6, the season proved to be relatively successful for the varsity team. The 2000 field hockey team wished the 2001 field hockey team the best of luck next year!

Merging spirit with fun and hard work is key to any successful team. The Girls Indoor Track team had an outstanding season, living up to this definition of a team. Carrying their "spirit stick" with pride, the girls worked overtime on the small and talented team. With leadership from senior captains Heather Driscoll, Jill Smith, Maura Gardner and Brighid Lynch and coaches Ms. Denise Carrara and Mr. Darren Burkett, the girls finished the season with a record of 3 wins and 5 losses. Many underclassmen and juniors had an impressive season as well and helped the team to accomplish its goals. Sophomore, Jen Harlow, is the success story of EBHS track. In addition to qualifying for states and eventually moving on to the New England meet, Jen's high jump of 5'4, broke the school record twice and is the 6th highest in New England. Another underclassman who aided the team in its accomplishments was freshman Caitlyn Callahan. Callahan came out fast and qualified for states in the 300 and also for the very successful 4 by 400 relay team. Holly Runnals, Lauren Russo, Colleen Lynch and Angela Rotondo were also major contributors.

SEASON OF THE MILLENNIUM

From the pounding on the floor, to the quotes before every game, the girls basketball team had one of its most memorable seasons. In the first half of the season, the girls did something that no other East Bridgewater girls' basketball team has ever done: they beat Hingham in Hingham's gym. Four hundred students and children came to Hingham's "pack the gym" night just to see EB beat them by 22 points. The girls left that night with confidence, pride, and a huge victory. The second half of the season was also marked by a huge accomplishment. Bridget Larkin became the first girl in the history of East

Bridgewater to score 1000 points. The gym was decorated with streamers and balloons and the stands were packed with 200 people. After she scored her 1000th point, each girl handed her a flower and together they presented ball that was signed and decorated. As the season came to a close, Ashleigh Moore and Bridget were selected to play in the all-star game. At halftime of the all-star game, Ashleigh won the three point contest making her the best three-point shooter in the Patriot League. Throughout the entire season, Bridget was the leading scorer in the league, averaging 22 points a game. Against Franklin, she scored a career high of 39 points. Each girl on the team will remember this for years to come. They will remember pasta fests, the bus rides, and the pep talks in the boys' locker room. They will remember the songs they warmed up to, and the sound of 200 people that were cheering so loudly they couldn't even hear their coach. Most of all, the girls will remember each other, and the amazing season they had together, and those memories will last a lifetime.

Finishing wit an overall record of 16 wins and only 6 losses, the team placed second in the Patric League. Some of the team's accomplishments include being awarded the Patric League Sportsmanship Award and advancing to the Quarterfinals of the State Tourne for the second straight year. In addition, the Vikings were the East Bridgewater Tourne Champions and the Whitman-Hanson Tourney Champions. Individual honors were presented to Kevin McDermott and Sean Findlay who were named Patriot League All-Stars. Kevin McDermott and Mike Cowgill were given Captains Awards, while Mike Cowgill received the Coach's Award and Chris Barton won the MIA. Sportsmanship Award. In the end, thirteen varsity letters were awarded, alon with five JV letters and twelve freshmen letters. Congratulations on a great season and a great record, and best of luck next season!

Astronom

The past year for the Astronomy Club has marked a critical milestone: the crucial point that may send an extracurricular organization to glorious success or banish it to the fiery depths of l'andemonium. For this club has proceeded into its second year of existence, but optimism was not the popular sentiment just six months ago. The first year had seen a tide of members, which quickly wahed and retrograded into a modicum group of perhaps just five includiduals. Dim prospects continued with the resignation of first-year officers that had been conductive to the previously emphatic club atmosphere. Soon, the club was entering a phase of political turnoll that manifested itself through consistently languid business procedure. However, this year would see a fortunate rise in both the credibility and notice a stabilization of theoryanization: a revolutionary restructuring was occurring that would alter the club undoubtedly for the better. Co-Presidents Reilly White and Joseph Rodricks installed Sara Gatea as Vice-President, and Alexander de Serpa as Secretary/ Treasurer. Hence, these changes would create a club with far greater potential and an activism that hecame exemplary in coming months.

Beginning in October, the Astronomy Club began an earnest attempt at raising the necessary funds to purchase a telescope. Such a complex optical instrument would be of great ald yet immine cost to the Astronomy Club, in addition, our meens

for fundraising were minimal, and it seemed our treasury would never rise above the watery trenches that so obscured our financial goal on the surface. However, Sara Gates would prove to be a fundraising genius, whose immensely creative mind and cunning would procure numerous donations to our organization. These donations were ever so patiently raffied off at football games in town, and the sum carned, despite ite apparent pauwas algorificant nonetheless. All members contributed immensely to this fund-raising, but the sum was indeed insufficient for the purchase of the telescope that would have our club a merciful deliverance from a blazing pit of astronomical ignorance. Despite this setback, the club was able to double in size during this time and now even greater proposed plans for building an observatory in town. Hopefully, from public and/or private or an observatory for the citizens of our fair town will be designed and built. From a more regular standpoint, meetings are now held on a weekly basis on Thursday's after school for astronomy and space science addactics—and he focal point of the school for astronomy and space science addactics—and he mitial goal has been reached.

Ever been cold, tired, hungry, lonely and 3,000 miles away from home? Then imagine being greeted by Mr. Ferrell-Locke and wondering if you have reached America or the North Pole. If you can picture that, then you can picture what Arzu Ozev, Peter Balazs, Jiajia Chen, and Haruka Ogawa went through when they first arrived. AFS is a club whose original purpose was to foster international relations amongst high school students across the world. Since 1981, the AFS Club at East Bridgewater has been supporting foreign exchange students from a variety of countries. This year EBHS hosts students from Turkey, Hungary, China and Japan.

One of the strongest traditions of the AFS Club is the annual AFS weekend. Each year, at the crack of dawn, the group assembles at the Ferrell-Locke's home where they partake of a homemade breakfast supplied by Mr. Ferrell-Locke himself. Next, it's off to Boston, for a visit to the Museum of Science, and shopping at Fanueil Hall. Meanwhile, back home in East Bridgewater, the AFS Club, under the leadership of Erin Sheppard, hosted a Junglethemed shindig. Later in the year, AFS welcomed Jakob, Abraham, James and Samuel in a reception in the High School Library. (See page 32.) All in all. AFS was very busy throughout the school year, ultimately proving to all exchange students that There is No Setter Place to Learn.

Tomorrows Teachers

Tomorrow's Teachers Club is three years s year. They say three is the charm and ub has really expanded this year. Mrs. n and Mrs. Sloan are the advisors of the nd have put a lot of effort into getting ub established. The officers this year esident, Heather Smith; Vice President, ay Materio: Secretary, Pamela gelo; and Treasurer, Emily Whitaker. lub is meant for those high school nts who are thinking about pursuing a rin education of any level. Last year row's Teachers scholarships were ed to four club members for full tuition tate college or university. This is a erful opportunity provided by the of Massachusetts. During the year, 's nephew, who has been a member of the Peace Corps for two years in Bulgaria, and EB's very own abella, who taught in Nicaragua for many years, gave interesting and informative presentations. Both speakers opened the of students to the endless possibilities that the field of education offers. The club is also planning field trips to Mass. Hospital lin Canton, a leadership day at Camp Burgess in Sandwich and a Tomorrow's Teachers Club convention at Bridgewater State e in April to meet with other local Tomorrow's Teachers Clubs and share ideas. This is a big event that the club is planning efinitely looking forward to.

and efficacious Mr. Rul Santoe employed these officers to procure the necessary funds for the proposed field trip to Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. This historical landmark would become the nucleus of the clubis purpose for the next year: raising the money necessary to travel the distance and stay for several days would become of the opus of the organization. Raising money would become a critical issue in the history club. The club had no purse of Fortunatus or Pactolian sands from which extract funds, and hence the club embarked on a vigorous fund-raising extravaganza. Through numerous car washes, completed in brutal cold. I substantial annumoney was raised. The most lucrative fundraliser by far was the raffling of the Sony PlayStation 2, in which tickets for this exorbitantly priced electronic device were for 95 each. Through this and a grant paying for the van to take the history club to Gettysburg, an affordable trip was conceived. It would be the organization of of Mr. Santoe, however, that would make this trip a truly memorable experience for all those who attended. So, in mid-February, most of the club participated in the that was the culmination of months of effort and determination. As past experience has shown, the future of this club is incredibly positive. As this is being will more historical rendezyous are being planned for areas all around Southern New England, including a possible trip to Antietam in the near future.

The National Honor Society is one of the most prestigious academic organizations a high school student can belong to. Members are recognized on a, well, on a national level for their academic achievements and their. uhmm, honor. Led by President Tom Hansbury, Vice President Meghan Rosenberg, Treasurer Jessica Zahka, Secretary Lindsay Mateiro, and advisor Ms. Mason, The National Honor Society performs a multitude of community service activities, such as volunteering their time at Brockton Hospital (when they are not doing battle with their evil counterpart archenemies, the National Dishonor Society). The annual trip to the Brockton Hospital usually occurs the week before Christmas vacation, when the members of NHS bring gifts, carols and cheer to the children's wing of the hospital. NHS members are also known for volunteering thier time to tutor-coordinator Erin Kenney, who partners them with any other student who feels he or she needs assistance. Finally, NHS end the year by putting a great deal of time and effort into the planning of the annual junior induction ceremony, always complete with the passing of the candle during the candle-lighting ceremony, and the year's fundraiser, currently deemed to be a lip sync.

Suzanne Ferrell-Locke, who along with Emily-Anne Patt led all juniors in scoring. "I thought that this might ige me," Jiajia Chen, EBHS's Chinese exchange student and math team ringer said earlier in the year, "but I was wrong. as easy just like all other American math." Japanese exchange student Haruka Ogawa agreed, "The only thing easier than team was Mr. Siddiqui's Calculus examinations." The AFS duo led all East Bridgewater scorers. Reilly White found time "Math team is a great place to just have fun, do math, and eat pizza. Does it get any better than that?" When asked nment sophomores Leanne LeBlanc and Samantha Robertson said, "For real?" and " respectively. Whether or not am-won or lost, it always lived by its team motto, "MATH RULES."

The Swim

One of the oldest and most veritable institutions in EBHS history is the Swim Club, a clandes organization this year celebrating its sesquicentennial. "The Swim Club actually invented : word," says current Swim Club advisor, Rui Santos. "People just didn't know any fancy ways say something was one hundred and fifty years old before then." Formed in 1851, the Swim Cl. membership has been as varied as it has been selective. Club activities over this, the Swim Cli sesquicentennial, have included inventing words, planning cour detate against ma

What do fashionable principals nationwide have in common? It's Student Advisors, that's what! Anywhere you see a high school principal wearing a matching tie and belt, or even matching socks, that's the work of the Student Advisors to the Principal, a principal's first line of defense against fashion faux pas!

But Student Advisory to the Principal is more than just a fashion consulting agency, its members are also instrumental in bringing to the attention of the principal any events that the student body feels are important. Each month, the members suggestions from the school population and present them in a meeting with the principal. From there, the floor is open for discussion, and the principal sets the ball in motion on the most important changes that may need to be made. Some of the focus projects of this year's Student Advisory to the Principal have been Junior exemption, sports user fees, parking lot privileges and safety concerns.

mnesty International

Have you ever wondered how you could make a difference in the world, but didn't know exactly how? If you have, then Amnesty International is the club for you. This year's E.B. High chapter of Amnesty International was led by officers Dan Gouthroand Rachel McManus and advisor, Mrs.

Lovett. Through the hard work of a dedicated core group of fewer than a dozen individuals, this year's Amnesty International club was extremely successful. On top of signing petitions and writing dozens upon dozens of letters to leaders around the world, Rachel McManus headed up a lucrative T-Shirt fundralser promoting different themes, such as women's rights around the world. All in all, the 2000-2001 school year was a big success for E.B. High's chapter of Amnesty International, and current members hope that more new members will join in the years to come.

Geography

"Geography Club is the greatest!" according to its founder and president, Rei White. With an increasing number of members, this club has become one of the students' most adored after-school activities. The round-table discussions, let by Geography Club's advisor Mr. Illsley and geography brainiac, Reilly White, involvinteresting conversations about world's current events. Questions everybour

What dumk thing do you think opresident will say or do next? Will he ever learn he to pronounce "indivisible?" They are pretty too questions, but somehow, a member of the clamanages to figure out an answer to one. Apartical from the joking around, geography club is vereducational. It brings the students up to device with the world's events. In addition, this year AFS students have given interesting an informative presentations of their national countries.

"We had our android infiltrate the school years ago, and only recently have the kids and faculty realized that Allison's a robot," said Condon. Responds Kim Allison: "I find Mr. Condon's statements highly amusing."

riking Saga

With the close of the 2001 school year comes the release of the 14th edition of the Viking Saga, our school's long-running literary magazine. This year's editor, Joseph Fratt has worked hard to be sure that the 2001 Saga upholds the standard of excellence achieved by each of its predecessors. Led by Mr. Dunphy, and supported by a class of willing workers, this year's edition is a success. Due to the amount of quality work vying for a position in the magazine, it was decided that poetic works to be included in this year's production would be selected by an unbiased panel of judges. These judges were found at Masconomet High School and chose the winners of all of this year's poetry contests. At the same time, the class, taught by Mr. Dunphy, spent their time deciding on the themes of this year's sections, some of which now include, "All's Fair in Love and War", "Memories of the Heart," and "The Road Not Taken."

Behind the scenes, production editors, Meghan Rosenberg and Sara Gates kept the presses running smoothly and on time. They are to be commended for their long hours of work on the biggest and most time-consuming job presented by the Viking Saga. Once the final copy is printed, the magazine will be sent out to be judged against the literary magazines of other towns. The 48-page accomplishment, topped by a cover design by Nate Milauskas, is sure to be given the same rating as last year: excellent.

thirteen years ago that the formal education of The Class of Two-Thousand and One had their first day of school. Over that time so much has happened. School field trips, class car washes, and trying to decide how to best spend the twenty-two minutes that you were allotted to eat your lunch for the past four years have been some of the highlights. Now, after thirteen years of time together, some things were inevitable. The day would finally come where you would graduate and leave this place. Other things, however; were not so certain. No one could have ever predicted that Ed Perry would have made it to first period four minutes early. If Ed can make it on time then you, the Class of Two-Thousand and One, can accomplish anything er Class of 2001,

I envision amazing yas for all of us. We will ier on June 3rd for the final y as a unit, from that point we will we as individuals no longer part of a

King community that has thrived for the seventeen or eighteen years. In the years to e some of us will have families, others will go on hange and inspire and all of us will explore the id inside and out trying to find our passion. These past years have defined us, they have shaped all of us in one way he other; they have taught us that the journey is far more oriant than the destination.

All of the things that I envision are not complicated by old age or by they are visions of the Human spirit prevailing over all enigmas. The close that bind us to routine and the inescapable future of repetition. I purage each and every one of you to get lost, to be encompassed by all that surrounds and lose a part of yourself in that beauty. The future is abstract and indefinable, it is apturable moments of reflection. Reflect on your life and your place in the process that the our journey possible.

My vision is one of superheroes and daydreams; superheroes who can make the world see, we them open their eyes. The world needs new leaders, new inspiration; we can make the world shine. Vision is real and the journey that led us down the same path connected us, we are forever connected.

On June 3rd when we gather for the last and Final time remember to watch the credits, to see farther the picture. Make the world pause with your actions because the rewind button is not an option.

"You may say I'm a dreamer..."

Ancient Rome. Joday in 2001, however, underclassmen no longer have to fight off hungry lions. But the path to senior year is sti an arduous one. "There have been a couple of times this year when I was sure we were going to get voted off the island," Junior Class president Sara Moukalled said, seemingly confus. East Bridgewater High School with CBS's blockbuster gu show Survivor." The confusion is not uncommon. For man underclassmen, only one thing is certain: that they are not sente I didn't know how to handle it at first," one sophomore, who wished to remain anonymous, said earlier this year, but I decide it would be best to just close my eyes and let the next two y pass like a stomach ache." We here at the Torch give underclassmen everywhere one big thumb up!

The Class of Two

The Junior Class is a bunch of silly kids led by a couple of silly advisors. During this past year the class has worker together to oversee such projects as the Homecoming dinner, Junior Prom, Christmas on the Common, multip car washes, March Madness and they have also partaken in general foolishness. "We knew from early on th year would be unlike any other," said class treasurer Holly Runnals. The first major accomplishment was the Homecoming dinner. Traditionally a difficult fundraiser, the juniors were able to turn a profit on this time honore traditional dinner. "I think that the success of the dinner can be traced back to two individuals," Class Advis Jamil Siddiqui stated. "Lasagna cutter Jamie Tressel and "The Salad Man" Matt Costello were running the kitchen like Chef Boyardee and Aunt Jemima would have. Their dedication to making sure that everyone had salad and that all pieces of lasagna were treated equal is what made the Homecoming dinner so great," Mr. Siddiqui concluded. Hetha Hetha Driscoll had this to say about the dinner, "I am a senior, and I have been coming to this dinner for years, and in the past I was always slightly worried about making sure that I got my money's worth. I mean no one wants to be the kid who gets the small slice of lasagna; that actually happened to me my sophomore year and I almost gave up all hope. I wasn't even going to come this year, but when I heard that the Class of 2002 was running it and remembered that Mrs. Barnes was the advisor, it peaked my curiosity. After all, Mrs. Barnes was the one responsible for turning to a frozen wasteland for last year's semiformal. I had to see what she had up her sleeve for the Homecoming nner. Let me tell you, she (and the Class of 2002) did not disappoint. I was glad that I went, it was good eats d a chance to see how much salad I could stuff in my FACE."

After the Homecoming dinner, the class turned its attention to Christmas on the Common. Just like last year class decided that the way to make money would be to sell soup and grilled cheese sandwiches to the hungry isses. Armed with six crockpots and seven ladles the class was determined to turn a buck on that cold wintry

Throughout the ages, there have been a select few educators who have not only made a difference in their students' lives, but have also raised the level of discourse of education forever. Aristotle. Plato. Mr. Miyagi. Pollowing in the footsteps of these men and more are the faculty of East Bridgewater High School. From the fun-loving Mr. Illsley and the dramatic Mrs. Cox to the stoic Mr. Cushing and the bridge-destroying Mr. Condon, the faculty and staff of East Bridgewater High School daily take teaching beyond the pale. Whether it be in the classroom, the playing field, the stage or out in the middle of some field somewhere joined together into a human knot, the faculty of East Bridgewater High School are shining stars of not only today, but also in the annals of time.

Faculty

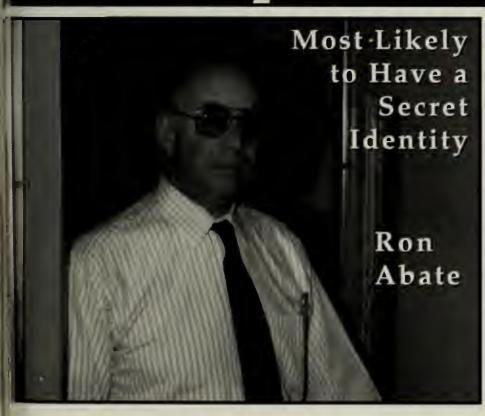

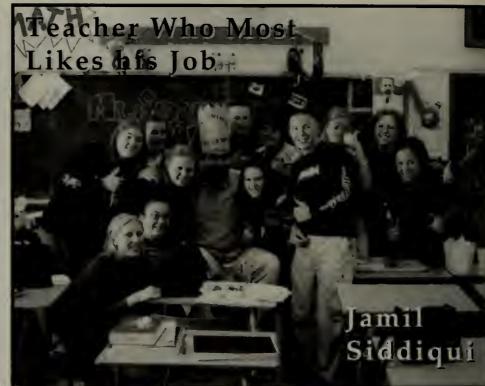

Superlatives

For the first time ever The Torch has included Faculty Superlatives, and while it may come as no surprise that Mr. Santos won Most Likely to be Dragged out of School in a Staightjacker of faculty members were deeply touched by their superlatives, so on behalf of the faculty Thank You to the Class of 2001.

Love,

Mom & Bad [Madame Gillespie and Mir Dugaka)

This past year saw the loss of one of East ridgewater High School's friends. Mr. William Moore assed away in March of 2001. Most of the students here ow will remember Mr. Moore as the coolest substitute at ever came to East Bridgewater High. Most don't ven know that Mr. Moore taught right here, in room 312, r twenty years before retiring in the spring of 1995. Although Mr. Moore may no longer be with us here in person, ere are things that he taught us and things about him that we will never forget: his daily crossword puzzles, his iefcase, him sneaking his coffee into class, the idea that sleeping during department meetings and faculty meeting as not only acceptable, but necessary, his kind rapport with both the students and the faculty alike, and of course always smiling face. We will miss you Mr. Moore, but we are fortunate to have known you and we will always nember you!

My dearest Casey,

The writing has been on the wall from an early age. You're a great kid who has always made us very proud. Stay as wonderful as you are, and remember no matter how old you get, you'll always be my baby.

All our love and best wishes Mom, Dad, Kerri, Katie Jesse,

Our hearts are filled with love and pride when we look at you, our firstborn. Aimhigh and persevere, and know that we are always here for you. We love you more than words can say!

> Congratulations and love always, Mom, Dad and Samantha

Nikki,

Your energy for life has always been astounding. We arevery proud of all you have accomplished and look forward to the exciting accomplishments yet to come. There is not a day you or your smile has not brightened for us all.

We love you very much! Mom, Bill, Ryan, Kasey, Dakota, and Dad

Karissa,

There is a time for everything in life.

A time to sit, but you were walking

A time to crawl, but you were running

A time to walk, but you were tumbling

The things you were capable of doing at a very early age, even amazed me! You were always looking forward to what came next. We told you over and over to enjoy the age you are, for it only comes once in life. But still you were looking forward.

There is also a time in life for letting go.

The wall of "age and time" that held you back and frustrated you is slowly falling. You are a beautiful, talented and warmhearted young woman. We hope you find the success, love and happiness you deserve. "Remember all that we have taught you little cottent tale."

We love you,

Mom, Dad Kaitlin and Kylene

Alycia,

Pursue your own dreams and goals and be happy. We love you and support you in whatever you do.

Love, Mom, Dad, Lisa, Jenna & CoCo Ed and Phil —
The journey this far has been unique — like each of you.
Enjoy life!
Love, Mom, Dad and Carl

Tarah,

Our precious daughter, as you begin the next chapter of your life, you take with you an incredible index of wonderful attributes. Determination, self-motivation, compassion, perseverance, level-headedness, focus and drive. With these qualities you possess come the knowledge to succeed. T, remember the more difficult the challenge the more triumphant, stronger and wiser we become. While you thumb through the following chapters ahead, be happy with yourself, in our eyes you're the closest thing to perfection God has ever created. Be happy in life, attain your goals and dreams without stress, and never forget to stop and smell the roses. Honey we love and respect you and are very proud of the person you have become. You are not afraid to stand alone for what you believe is right. You have a positive influence on your friends and are a great role model to your sisters. You are a pillar in this family. So 7, as you pull out of the driveway every morning of your senior year, tears fill my eyes. I miss you already. I feel I'm in your crib again teaching you to climb out.

Mom, Dad, Candace and Jenay

Kristen,

Enjoy life! You only do these things once. Once you complete each stage, you can never experience them the same way again. You are only a freshman on the JV team once.

Love, Mom and Dad Lined with roses and smiles is my heart forevermore

Aull of fond memories and sunny days

That which I cherish, may no one steal from my possession.

-Lauren E. Polloni

Lauren – Always remember how much you are loved and cherished by all of your family and friends. You have made us so proud!

With love,

Mom, Kate and Erin

Rosie,

No wonder you were Bugga's favorite. You're still the "good son."

Love,

Mom and Dad

Crystal,

One of the greatest days in my life was the day you began your life.

You were my little gift from God.

My journey became so much more, watching you through yours.

Remember to keep both eyes wide open to enjoy all the scenery along the way.

1 LOVE YOU - DAD

Dear Sarah,

Never has a daughter

made a family so proud!

91 Years is Enough!

Three members of the East Bridgewater Faculty decide that there is life after EBHS.

For the past 31 years Mrs. Cox could be found sitting on her favorite stool reading aloud to the students of East Bridgewater High School. At the same time Mrs. Howard could always be found in her office ready to help guide the youth of our town. Meanwhile, you could find Mr. Lasdow blowing his horn in the music department. It wasn't always that way though... Helen Cox, along with Claire Howard first started teaching in East Bridgewater in 1970. Mrs. Howard was originally hired as a Spanish teacher before she made her move to the guidance office, but the woman affectionately known as "Coxy Baby" and

"Foxy Coxy" to her former students has been in the English classroom since the beginning. Then, in 1972 Daniel Lasdow joined the mix as the newest member of the music department. Between the three of these teachers, they have taught more than 15,000 school days and had over 10,000 students. It is with great sadness that the East Bridgewater School community must say farewell to these educators. They have dedicated their lives to the children of East Bridgewater, and they have touched many lives in their time here. To all of them we wish the best in the new life after EBHS.

LOOK WHAT WE LEFT BEHIND

From the time that you were in middle school you have all been told, "Wait unt you get to the high school, you're gonna have to work your butts off. Well, we here at The Torch decided to find out which of our students would hav the resources to survive their high school experience. We went out and foun students working off their butts, rumps, behinds, backsides, gluteus maxima, kiesters, rears, bums, tushes, derrieres, and buttocks. As you can see and hopefully appreciate, the students of East Bridgewater High School are not afraid to work and they are also proud of their posteriors. While this may not be the best side of student life here at East Bridgewater High School, make no buts about it, it is a necessity for each and every one of us. As the Class of 2001 prepares to leave us behind, The Torch would like remind all seniors not to slip through the cracks of life and we would also like to congratulate all of the seniors who worked their butts off over the last four years and wish them all the best from the bottom of our hearts.
